*RESEARCH COLLOQUIUM FOR JUNIOR INVESTIGATORS

Ph.D. students and young researchers of any nationality and affiliation are strongly encouraged to enjoy the Lecture Series as speakers, in order to share and exchange views and network with other researchers in their respective fields of interest. First, they are expected to present the results of their research, and then, to engage in the debate with the keynote speakers acting as chairpersons and discussants.

For this purpose, a maximum of two junior investigators for each Lecture will be selected to discuss (online or in person) their research on the issues with the other participants. Interested young researchers are invited to send an abstract written in Italian or in English (between 1000-3000 words) together with a CV to the following address eu-draw@unisa.it by:

Proposals will be selected by the EU-Draw JM teaching staff members. The outcome of the selection - which is going to be conducted on the basis of the relevance to the themes of the call, and the originality and diversity of the subjects - will be announced by email.

Upon request, a reimbursement of participants' travel expenses can be considered.
